

Atlas – Home of the Responsible Van Operator

Don't worry... your possessions are in good hands.

At Atlas, we're serious about ensuring the safety of your goods and seeing that you are treated with the professionalism you deserve.

Atlas conducts a thorough background check on every van operator and is the first carrier to require a criminal background check on new, permanently employed moving team members. We request background checks on all temporary and part-time laborers as well (an Atlas Initiative). This assures that the Atlas Van Operator and moving crew members you invite into your home and entrust with your goods are qualified professionals of excellent character.

What's more, Atlas maintains a computer record of each van operator's claims experience and customer satisfaction ratings. We use this information to regularly assess the performance of our van operators and ensure you receive the highest quality service.

In addition to background checks, our self-haul policy allows your Atlas Van Operator to be involved during the entire relocation process, from packing at origin to unpacking at destination. This continuity of service gives you peace of mind knowing the professionals who start the job will see it through to your satisfaction.

Count on the finest help available.

On average, Atlas Van Operators are among the most experienced in the industry. Every criteria we use to measure their performance is designed to ensure excellent customer service. Since their livelihoods depend upon how well they perform, our van operators are highly motivated to continually exceed your expectations. This helps build a company of superior van operators for your peace of mind.

Your Atlas Van Operator listens and understands.

Count on your Atlas Van Operator to:

- Listen carefully and follow through on your requests.
- Show care and considerate behavior to ease your apprehension about moving.
- Provide service that exceeds your expectations.

Atlas Van Operators are selected and measured by these criteria. Atlas' quality standards ensure that you receive one of the most professional van operators in the business.

A big reason our customers return to Atlas is the personal attention they receive. When you choose Atlas, you can count on an experienced van operator who is responsible, caring, and dedicated to your total satisfaction.
